

Peking Day By Day

BY "QUI VIVE"
(Staff Correspondence)

Peking, July 8.—The "balloons d'essai" which have been launched by the busy disseminators of propaganda for Marshal Tiao Kuo during the past week, have been of every hue and pattern. During the first part of the week it was stated authoritatively by Marshal Tiao's campaign managers, that the General favored the postponement of the presidential election indefinitely, and that he was strongly opposed to any unconstitutional methods which might eventuate in his being placed in the Presidential chair.

Three interviews were issued for publication, which when stripped of all unnecessary and flowery verbiage, were to the effect that, General Tiao urged the members of parliament to bury their factional hatchets, at least temporarily, and get down to the business of formulating the Constitution—a job which has hung, like the famous sword of Damocles, over their respective heads for the past four years. The interviews seemed sincere and were accepted at their face value.

Along about the middle of the week, came the announcement that General Tiao had been approached by Dr. Sun Yat-sen's political followers with a view to holding a conference in the near future, for the purpose of determining some basis, or common ground, upon which the parties of both North and South could meet and evolve some sort of a plan which would stop the petty jealousies and rivalries of both contending factions. I believe the "peaceful reunification of China" was the wording, but "a rose by any other name would smell as sweet."

In other words, a grand love feast was planned, when both sides would appear with one hand held behind them, and tell the other side how much they liked and respected it, how much they valued each other's advice, and how they were going to abide by the decisions, for the good of the country, arrived at in the meeting.

Flowery telegrams crossed between the northern and southern camps. Telegrams carefully edited when translated into English, but even in the translation, several prickly barbs could not be wholly eradicated. I will wager five copper cash that both leaders had at least metaphorical tongues in cheeks when the telegrams were dispatched.

These "trial balloons" were not so well received, either by the public, or by the various camp followers, who saw that if such a conference should actually occur, and anything really constructive be accomplished, many and numerous political aspirations would wither in the bud.

Accordingly a series of long winded explanations was issued by the various Chinese press associations as to the unfeasibility of such a conference, since, up to the present, at least, no common ground, or starting point, had been discovered upon which to base the discussions. In other words, all that the leaders had in common, was the common good of their country, and as every Chinese knows, "ephemeral patriotism" is hardly a basis of common understanding. It is not sufficiently definite, there is no give and take, no element of barter, which, after all, is the very life of both Chinese political as well as economic existence.

While these explanations were still in the process of being painstakingly unwound, General Tiao, or to be more exact, another group of his managers, saw that they were not going very well and issued an interview under the name of General Chang, his chief-of-staff, stating that Marshal Tiao had been erroneously quoted, in stating that he favored a delay in the presidential elections.

Ergo, if he did not favor delay he must favor haste, or so the opposition press believed, and wrote many leaders on the subject of his trying to hasten parliamentary action. It was then explained again, that Tiao believed in Parliament exercising its own prerogative, and setting a day when a quorum must be called, to consider, first the appointment of a committee for the drafting of a Constitution, and second, the possibility of holding an election.

In the midst of all these demarches, a political bombshell was cast into the camp by the resignation of Ching Ying-hua, the Acting Minister of Finance.

Weather
Variable, threatening. The maximum temperature yesterday was 78.4 and the minimum 72.9, the figures for the corresponding day last year being 88.7 and 70.7.

New O. Henry Humor Series
Feature Of The China Press

Recently Discovered in Files of a Texas Newspaper on Which Story Writer was Columnist

This is the first of a series of O. Henry's stories recently discovered in the files of a Texas newspaper on which the master of short story writing was a columnist. One of these stories will appear daily in The China Press for the next fifteen weeks.

THE COLONEL'S STORY

THEY were sitting around a stove and the tobacco was passed around. They began to grow introspective.

The talk turned upon their old homes and the changes that the cycling years bring about. They had lived in Houston for many years, but only one was a native Texan.

The colonel hailed from Alabama, the judge was born in the swamps of Mississippi, the grocer first saw the light in a frozen town of Maine, and the major proudly claimed Tennessee as his birthplace.

"Have any of you fellows been back home since you left here?" asked the colonel.

The judge had been back twice in twenty years, the major once, the grocer never.

"It's a curious feeling," said the colonel, "to go back to the old home where you were raised, after an absence of fifteen years. It is like seeing ghosts to be among people whom you have not seen in so long a time. Now I went back to Crockett, Alabama, just fifteen years after I left there. The impression made upon me was one that never will be obliterated."

"There was a girl in Crockett once that I loved better than anything in the world. One day I slipped away from everybody and went down to the little grove where I used to walk with her. I walked along the paths we used to tread. The oaks along the sides had scarcely changed; the little blue flowers on either hand might have been the same ones when she came to meet me."

"Our favorite walk had been along a line of thick laurels beyond which ran a little stream. Everything was the same. There was no change there to oppress my heart. Above were the same great sycamores and poplars; there ran the same brook; my feet trod the same path they had so often walked with her. It seemed that if I waited she would surely come again, tripping so lightly through the gloaming with her starry eyes, and nutbrown curls, and she loved me, too. It seemed then that nothing could ever have parted us—no doubt, no misunderstanding, no falsehood. But who can tell?

"I went to the end of the path. There stood the old hollow tree in which we used to place notes to each other. What sweet words that old tree could tell if it had known! I had fancied that during the rubs and knocks I had received from the world my heart had grown calloused, but such was not the case.

"I looked down into the hollow of the tree, and saw something white. It was a folded piece of paper, yellow and stained with age. I opened it and read it with difficulty.

"Dearest Richard: You know I will marry you if you want me to. Come round early tonight and I will give you my answer in a better way. Your own Nellie."

"Gentlemen, I stood there holding that little piece of paper in my hand like one in a dream. I had written her a note asking her to marry me and telling her to leave her answer in the old tree. She must have done so, and I never got to read it. The crowd was silent. The major wiped his eyes, and the judge sniffed a little. They were middle-aged men now but they, too, had known love."

"And then," said the grocer, "you left right away for Texas and never saw her again?"

"No," said the colonel. "When I didn't come round that night she sent her father after me, and we were married two months later. She and the five kids are up at the house now. Pass the tobacco, please."

FRENCH LOWER HOUSE VOTES IN FAVOR OF PACIFIC PACT

Four Hundred And Ninety-eight Ballots, All For Treaty

SARRAUT O. K.'s IT Hughes Is Warmly Praised For Part In Conference

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, July 9.—The Chamber of Deputies today passed the Bill approving the Pacific Convention. The number of votes cast was 498, all of them being for the measure.

The annexes to the Pacific Treaty were also passed.

In the course of the debate the Reporter, M. Raynaldy, emphasized that the Treaty did not apply to the parties' continental possessions on the Pacific, but said that the Franco-Japanese Treaty of July, 1907, constituting a guarantee of inestimable value, was still in force and applicable to all French continental possessions.

M. Raynaldy, enumerating the advantages of the Treaty, said that for the United States it meant the disappearance of the Anglo-Japanese Treaty and avoidance of causes of conflict in the Pacific. Britain had denounced her alliance with Japan without losing Japan's friendship and Britain had indirectly assured the security of her Dominions without resort to a fleet.

The Treaty consecrated France's status as a Great Pacific Power. France would be consulted if grave events cropped up, and her insular possessions were guarded against sudden attacks.

M. Sarraut, Minister of the Colonies, termed the Treaty a great instrument, substituting relaxation for tension. It did not contain sanctions, but was counterbalanced by the word of honor of nations accustomed to keep their word. The Treaty brought a guarantee of peace, a new procedure which would prevent conflicts, and a hope of the dispersal of the heavy clouds on the Pacific.

M. Sarraut paid a tribute to Mr. Hughes and the loyal spirit of the American nation, and also paid a tribute to Japan, adding that Indo-China had no need to fear an attack from Japan.

Replying to a question, M. Sarraut said that the French delegation had at first urged the inclusion of Indo-China in the scope of the Treaty, but it would have brought up the problems of Manchuria and Korea with the consequent difficulties.

The two Nine-Power Treaties relating to China have not yet been reported by the Foreign Affairs Committee and will presumably be discussed at the autumn session.

(Reuter's Service)
Lausanne, July 9.—General relief and satisfaction are expressed at the happy issue of the laborious negotiations.

The Allies have agreed to suppress all reference to the currency in which the Ottoman Debt is payable, but they have reserved the right to submit a declaration in committee maintaining the principle that private contracts between the Turkish Government and its creditors are still binding and cannot be modified except by the free consent of the parties.

The Turks have referred to a tool regarding concessions, but generally the protocol consecrates contracts and concessions concluded before October 29, 1914.

Constantinople and the Straits will be evacuated within six weeks of the ratification of the Treaty and provisions will be made in favor of Allied nationals pending the enforcement of the Treaty, which will probably be signed on July 17.

Russia will be invited to send representatives to sign the Straits Convention.

"Doug And Mary And George"

THE good looking gentleman all dressed up is none other than George B. Mooser, Far Eastern representative of the United Artists, and well known in Shanghai without the formality of an introduction. "Doug" is all bronzed up for his Baghdad picture which he is just starting.

CHAMBER HERE SENDS W. RELESS TO PRESIDENT

Voyage Indicates Government's Interest In Pacific, Says Radio

President Harding's present trip to Seattle is the first trip of his kind ever made in the Pacific by a President of the United States. It is the occasion for the following message despatched yesterday via Naval radio by the Board of Directors of the American Chamber of Commerce of Shanghai:

"Warren G. Harding, President of the United States, care Trans-Port Henderson, Seattle to Alaska: 'Welcome to the Pacific.'

"Your voyage indicates the interest of our Government in affairs in this part of the world and is very gratifying to Americans in all walks of life who have worked long and patriotically to bring about the closer interest of America in the great future peace and welfare of America and the nations about the Pacific."

"Conditions in the Republic of China are now most critical and demand the closest attention of yourself and American leadership, otherwise China's four hundred million will be forced to abandon the dream of democracy modelled upon our example, and possibly accept leadership of interests which are not sympathetic to our ideals of world peace and human welfare."

"American commercial interests in the Far East potentially are the greatest in the whole world and they demand the closest attention if they are to be preserved for our present and future generations."

"American Chamber of Commerce, Shanghai."

EDITOR ACQUITTED

(Reuter's Service)
London, July 9.—Ernest Jude, the former editor of the Eclair, has been acquitted of the charge of relations with the enemy during the war.

By Westa

In Frenchtown yesterday I saw a little Chinese girl of perhaps five summers—a quaint little tot—run out into the street to meet her father as he was returning home from work. He was driving a garbage cart that was drawn by a fleet little horse which, from its look, might have been a monkey, a sheep.

The horse, from the way it slouched along, and the driver, from the way he slouched in his seat, were dead tired; but both brightened perceptibly when they saw the little girl. The horse stopped and perked up its listless ears and the man, straightening, smiled down at his daughter, who by her arms extended to be lifted up to the driver's seat.

Her father lifted her up, all excited, and more excited when he gave her one of the reins to hold, at the same time clucking to the horse to move on.

And so they proceeded on their way; the little girl holding the one rein and looking up occasionally, with great pride in her eyes, at her father, who she undoubtedly regarded as the greatest man in the world, while he smiled down at her, as amused as she was proud.

Both were very happy; even the little flea bitten horse, as he jogged along homeward, seemed a bit happier, and like his driver, a bit amused at the breathlessness of the little girl's adventure.

JAPAN MADE NO OFFER TO BRITAIN ON NAVAL PACTS

Admiralty Chief Says It Is Up To U. S. To Obtain Ratification

(Reuter's Service)
London, July 9.—The Chief of the Admiralty, Admiral Sir John Jellicoe, replying to questions today, said that the Government had received no proposal from Japan with a view to carrying out the Washington Naval Convention by mutual agreement between Japan, Britain and the United States, irrespective of the action of France and Italy.

The British Government was carrying out the Agreement in all parts but the Treaties of Washington Act of 1922, restricting the building of warships by private firms, in certain aspects had not yet become operative.

Referring to Viscount Curzon, Mr. Ronald McNell said that it was for the United States Government to take the initiative with regard to securing ratification by the other signatories of the Washington Treaty within a reasonable time.

Consequently the Government had not made and had not received any representations. Except that the French Chamber of Deputies had ratified the Naval Treaty, the position was the same as he had stated on February 21.

(Reuter's Service)
London, July 10.—Mr. J. O. P. Bland, in a letter to the Times with regard to Sir John Jellicoe's observation in a letter to the Times on July 4 that the Washington Agreement had already yielded important positive results, asks what tent have they been or are likely to be effective in checking the chaos in China.

"Falling some situation will, I fear, continue to result of the Washington Agreement on the Far Eastern problem has been to perpetuate and propagate the utterly delusive idea of a Europeanized or an Americanized type of Chinese politics, the efficient administration and that public opinion abroad should, therefore, sympathize with their crude theories of art and crudeness of the craft of government."

Munich, July 9.—At the conclusion of the treason trial in which Professor Georg Fuchs, journalist and art critic, and others were charged with plotting forcibly to separate Bavaria from the Reich, to overthrow the Bavarian Constitution and to make a rapprochement with France, Fuchs was sentenced to 12 years' penal servitude, a fine of 2,000,000 marks and loss of civil rights for 10 years and was ordered to pay the costs. Johann Munk was sentenced to 15 months' penal servitude, a fine of 30,000,000 marks, and expulsion from Germany. Three of the accused were acquitted.

(Reuter's Service)
London, July 9.—The Cabinet discussed reparations today. Marquess Curzon reported the results of his recent conferences with the French, Belgian and Italian Ambassadors. Official circles are very secretive.

It is anticipated that Mr. Stanley Baldwin and Marquess Curzon will shortly state the Government's decision in Parliament. There is renewed talk of separate action by Britain in the event of France refusing a written reply to the British questionnaire.

London, July 9.—Dr. Sthamer, the German Ambassador, had a prolonged interview with Marquess Curzon today at which the latter is said to have suggested that the German Government should show strong disapproval of the acts of sabotage in the Ruhr and in the Rhineland. The matter of passive resistance was also discussed, the Foreign Secretary urging councils of moderation and prudence.

Transport Union Asks Dockers To Return To Work

(Reuter's Service)
London, July 9.—A conference of the Transport Workers' Union in London passed a resolution today declaring that the dockers' agreement must be honored and urging the strikers to resume work. An amendment to support the strikers was defeated by 136 votes to 18.

The dockers everywhere remain on strike except in Liverpool where over half of them have resumed work. Fourteen thousand colliers are idle in Monmouthshire in consequence of the dockers' strike.

INDIAN MURDER CASE ADJOURNED UNTIL FRIDAY

Prosecution Concluded At Hearing Yesterday

The prosecution closed its case yesterday at the British Consulate Court hearing of the murder of Arjan Singh, a fellow countryman, whose body was found in a creek off Yu Yuen Road after he had been missing for nearly six weeks.

Final testimony for the prosecution was given by Chief Detective Inspector Reeves and the case was then adjourned until Friday. The case is being heard by Mr. D. R. Cooke, Magistrate, and Mr. Hardley Maitland, prosecutor, while Mr. J. G. Priestwood appeared for the defendants.

The witness said that the police first were given information concerning Arjan Singh's disappearance through an anonymous letter, in which however they did not attach much significance. After the body was found witness conducted an investigation in the country off Yu Yuen Road. An Indian's boat and a piece of cloth was found. He traced the author of the letters and as a result of information given by H. A. Hando, who was working for Mr. R. C. Faithfull, a warrant was issued for the arrest of the accused. Prior to this Arjan Singh made a statement.

Witness said that the statement was as follows:

"I was a watchman employed at 59 Yu Yuen Road for nine months. Arjan Singh has been with me for four months and left on April 27. Arjan Singh took his place on May 2. I remember April 24. I went to a wine-shop in Annam Road for the purpose of buying rice, potatoes and wine. There I met three other Indians including Arjan Singh. Arjan Singh was drinking with Kur Singh. I bought six cents worth of wine. Kur Singh used abusive language to S. P. C. 280 and the constable wanted to fight, but I acted as peacemaker. Afterwards they all went away and I went home in a ricksha. Arjan Singh and Kur Singh were drunk. Arjan Singh was dressed in a blue serge suit with a red turban and black boots. I got home at 7.30 and cooked the rice and potatoes myself. I did not tell Arjan Singh of the trouble. I did not go to the Central Police station that day. I went the day before on a bicycle. I never did meet Arjan Singh there. I was never friendly with Arjan Singh but I was not an enemy. I am now working at the cotton mill with Kalaria Singh. Arjan Singh was never employed at the mill while I was there."

Under cross-examination, Chief Inspector Reeves emphatically denied that the two accused were taken into custody before the warrants were issued, as counsel intimated.

Important Legal Fight Looming In Kearney Case

William B. Reed for the United States and Kweliang and Hwahana for China (during the term of President James Buchanan) provided the same in similar language.

INTERPRETATION
District Attorney Husar interprets the clauses of the two treaties as meaning that Captain Kearney, whom he alleges imported arms and ammunition into Shanghai as carried in detail by THE CHINA PRESS yesterday, violated the treaty under the contention that arms and ammunition are included in "other contraband articles of merchandise." Mr. Husar, therefore, claims that Kearney, if guilty, is liable to be turned over to the Chinese courts for punishment and extraterritorial rights denied him.

Such an interpretation is bound to cause an extremely bitter and interesting fight when the case is heard before United States Commissioner Nelson Lurton following Kearney's arrest, as it involves a vital principle important not only to the attorneys and Kearney in this particular case but to all Americans resident in China.

NOT ARRESTED
The new works are delayed pending an important detail—the arrest of Kearney. Captain Kearney is known to have arrived at Ningpo on the Chekiang gun-boat Young Ping several days ago but has not been seen since that time. Deputy United States Marshal Van Buskirk returned from Ningpo yesterday after a three days' fruitless search for the "Commander-in-Chief" of the Chekiang Navy, and the police of all nationalities all over China have now been requested to effect his arrest, despite the fact that Judge C. S. Franklin, Kearney's legal advisor during his recent trip to Korea where he characterized the Eldorado, issued a statement yesterday in which he said that although he was not Kearney's legal advisor at the time of the alleged arms deal and knew nothing about any such alleged transactions in guns he was certain the Captain would return to Shanghai when he learned a warrant had been issued for him.

In connection with the disclosures printed by THE CHINA PRESS concerning the chartering and arrival in Chekiang waters of the Eldorado and the alleged arms deal Admiral B. V. Besor, mentioned in yesterday's issue as one of the Russian leaders involved in the chartering of the ships, issued the following statement:

REPORT'S STATEMENT
"In view of the article which appeared in THE CHINA PRESS on July 5, and the articles appearing in the Shanghai papers on July 10, I feel that I should make a statement relative to the transactions concerning the Russian refugee ships in Gensan, Korea.

"Let me first state that I know nothing of Captain Kearney's dealings in December of last year having come to Shanghai in April of this year and having then made Captain Kearney's acquaintance for the first time. In April I entered into negotiations with Captain Kearney for the chartering of four refugee ships lying in the Port of Gensan. The 'Eldorado' was not among the number. I had several conferences with Captain Kearney and discussed the terms of the charter parties with his attorney, Mr. Franklin.

"We had no negotiations concerning arms or ammunition and no discussions concerning the same. The Navy owns no arms or ammunition in China, Japan or Korea. After the charter parties were drawn they were signed in the American Consulate. I then helped Captain Kearney select navigators and engineers to accompany him to Korea to bring the four vessels to China. I also sent my former aid de camp and formerly chief engineer of the transport division, Lieutenant Wilhelmsson, to Korea to assist Mr. Franklin in his negotiations with the generals in Gensan who claimed joint control over three of the vessels, and also to represent me there.

"I further thought it advisable to have Mr. Wilhelmsson in Gensan in case there were further repairs to be made to the vessels. The statement to the effect that I had pocketed the money is incorrect. It was understood that the charter money was not to be paid until the vessels left Gensan. As for the money received for the sale of the three small tugs in February, two of which were sold to Japanese and the third to a Russian merchant, this money was used to repair the a.s. Cho'ok, which had been damaged by the Reds in Vladivostok, and for other necessary repairs, also payments to the crew. The fourth small tug mentioned was not sold, having gone aground.

"My accounts covering the handling of these funds are open to inspection by any one having authority to see them.

"I do not know of any gun-running of Captain Kearney in connection with this transaction, as my only dealings with him and his lawyer concerned the chartering of the ships from deteriorating in value from 1000 to 100.

It was the fourth time he had resigned, so no one paid any particular attention until the following day, when a friend of his called the offices of the Finance Ministry on long distance telephone, and said that not only had he arrived in Peking, but that he had made up his mind not to return.

Here was a tempest in a teapot! Mr. Chang's excellent career as acting head of the Finance Ministry was well known to every parliamentarian, and although like many auditors, he was severely criticised for his parsimonious methods in advancing funds for objects which were highly speculative, nevertheless his zeal and honesty were beyond question and his loss to the country at the present time is immeasurable. How is it possible to run a country when there is no one empowered to sign treasury warrants? It is a small matter that the treasury contains nothing but I.O.U.'s, notes of indigent creditors, and similar securities.

Nevertheless, Mr. Chang, although he rose to fame over his successful negotiation of the "Ninety-Six Million" loan some two years ago, for which his successor derived most of the credit, was obdurate in his refusal to return to his post, chiefly due to the fact that not only had his efforts to raise funds to tide over the present crisis met with nothing but opposition by all members of parliament, but in addition his final scheme of disposing of some 1,500,000 piculs of salt to Japan, (i.e., surplus salt), had been definitely and finally quashed.

If this in itself were not sufficient, the announcement was made the same day of the departure of more than 200 Members of Parliament to attend a conference in the South.

And Marshal Tsao Kun confidently expects that there will be sufficient Members of Parliament in Peking for a quorum this coming week! But the age of miracles is over. Unless something resembling a seismic cataclysm takes place a quorum in Parliament will be composed chiefly of those who are present in spirit.

Speaking of quorums an amusing story is recounted of the difficulties encountered by one of the political disbanding officers who endeavored to obtain a quorum recently for the passage of a much needed measure. The lawmakers were each given an honorarium of ten dollars a day to attend the special sessions of parliament, in order to ensure the passage of the bill. For the first week they each turned up, at, or near, the appointed hour, collected their modest stipend and departed without even venturing into the chamber itself. Half an hour later the halls of parliament were just as empty as previously.

The following week the crafty disbursing officer changed his tactics and let it be known that the "ghost" would not walk until half past five o'clock in the afternoon. Hence, the solons finished their afternoon siesta, before appearing. At his wit's end, the disbursing officer hit upon a plan which he believed would be "trick proof." He let it be known that in the future he would require receipts, and to obtain the honorarium which would be issued at five o'clock, the receipt must first be signed at ten o'clock in the morning.

The weather was hot. It was only ten dollars. Why make two trips in the hot sun to collect such a paltry sum?

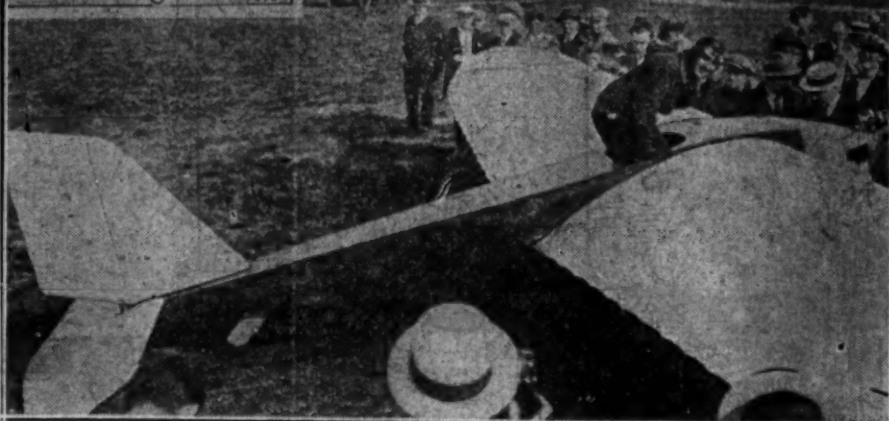

The measure was accordingly passed in two days, and the parliamentarians relapsed again into their usual apathy, and discussed the political situation.

But to return again for a moment to Marshal Tsao and his real plans. No possible stone is being left unturned by his managers to put him in the presidential chair, no matter at what cost, or the length of his tenure of office.

Late Wednesday afternoon there were many definite rumors, that the troops of General Feng, who are guarding Peking—ostensibly for in-

"Flivver Plane" Proves A Success

Lieut. George Barbot

LEUTENANT George Barbot's demonstration of his motor glider, or "flivver plane," as it has been nicknamed in the U. S., at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, New York, has practically proved his contention that the day of general airplane travel is not far distant. The tiny monoplane, weighing only 200 pounds, attained a speed of seventy miles an hour on a gallon of gasoline. The French aviator put it through severe tests, and it answered each time, just as it did in its recent flight across the English Channel. Barbot has stated that the plane, which has a fifteen-horsepower motor, can be manufactured in quantity for less than $400.

vasion—had been incited to mutiny. The foreigners were advised to keep as much as possible within the Legation Quarter in case of trouble. The merchants closed up their shops earlier than usual.

But nothing happened! It later developed that the plan had been for General Tsao to hurry to the rescue of Peking, since he is among other things the Inspector General of Chihli, and after quelling the mutiny by a superior force of arms, would enter the capital, heralded as "The Savior of Peking," and seat himself in the Presidential chair, as military dictator if nothing more.

Why the mutiny failed is a matter of conjecture. Some say there was a slip up on the "Mutiny Disbursing Officer's" part, others aver that it was merely a ruse to extract further extortions from the merchant class for additional protection.

In any event, the mutiny was "postponed." By a curious coincidence, Admiral Anderson, in command of the U. S. Asiatic Squadron arrived in Peking on Wednesday evening and went at once to conference with Dr. Schurman, the American Minister. The Admiral expects to remain in Peking some ten days on a "sightseeing tour."

Russian Arrested After Street Chase; Charged With Theft

Salabern Saloff, an unemployed Russian, was arrested shortly before noon yesterday after an exciting chase through Peking and Museum Roads and was booked at Central police station on the charge of picking the pocket of a Chinese of a wallet containing $390. He will appear in the Mixed Court this morning.

The Chinese victim of the theft was in the Chinese Post Office when he felt a hand in his pocket and raised an outcry. Saloff ran along Peking Road and was pursued by the Chinese constable on duty outside the Post Office. The constable at the corner of Peking and Museum Roads also joined the chase and the fugitive was caught. The wallet was discovered on his person.

EXPORT TRADE IS SLACK, SUPPLIES SHORT, PRICES UP

Stocks Depleted Due To End Of Season; Market Situation

BY DAVID ARABIE

Trade has been considerably restricted on the export market. Operations on account of London and Continental buyers are in very small proportions, and this is due to two reasons: one, that some of the products are not procurable in Shanghai owing to the drawing in of the end of the season, and, secondly, prices demanded by Chinese holders are considerably higher than what consumers are prepared to offer and higher, as well, than the quotations of similar articles in other markets. With export trade in a quiet state and important part of the daily transactions is purely speculative, buyers purchases entered into by exporting houses who anticipate an improvement in exchange and an ultimate disposal of their lots at a profit. In many lines the Chinese dealer is adamant against any concession, and consequently quotations are very firm with a tendency to improve.

There has been a dearth of any buying orders for Chinese rapeseeds by the United Kingdom and the Continent owing to the fact that the rate ruling on the Shanghai market is some £2 to £3 per ton c.i.f. London higher than what is obtainable in Calcutta and in Bombay. Were Chinese prices "right" from the point of view of European buyers, considerable business would have been done.

Japanese buyers have stepped state the branch and bought during the week some 10,000 bags for July-August shipment at Tls. 5.20 per picul. The rate at the moment is very steady and shows a disposition to harden. The freight rate from Bombay and Calcutta to Japan does not permit of the landing of Indian rapeseeds in Tokyo at a price cheaper than Chinese rapeseeds, and it is for that reason that Japan has come into the local market for her needs. Supplies of this commodity in Shanghai warehouses at the present moment are estimated at about 5,000 bags, but arrivals are good and expected to take care of all possible expansion in business in this direction. The daily operations of speculators in this product do not exceed more than 2,000 piculs.

Business in the general produce market is dull, many consumers still being disposed to hold aloof and await developments in the general business situation. Sentiment in the Shanghai market is, on the other hand, more cheerful although the activity in some lines has shown diminution. Bullish reports continue to be heard in regard to the production of China wood oil this season while political conditions in the country are as bad as ever. The Hankow market for this oil is dominated with a slackened demand from the United States, and offerings are noted at lower prices for immediate and future delivery.

WOOD OIL BUSINESS

The volume of business closed in wood oil is by no means heavy, but it shows a noteworthy increase in comparison with the sales of previous weeks. It is expected that shortly there will be an increased inquiry from the American paint trade. The peanut market is quiet and practically dead, without even nominal prices being quoted. There have been very heavy shipments of late from Dairen of soy beans off to the United States, but the price list shows no quotable change. The Shanghai market for soy beans is easy, the quotation being round Tls. 4 per picul. Trade in this commodity is still slow as the demand for same is poor.

Borne business is transpiring in homeleaves, Japanese buyers predominating. The United Kingdom and the Continent have been out of the market. The price per picul for Hankow horsebeans.

Calculated advice point to stagnancy in the London produce market, but there have been no wide fluctuations, buyers showing more reserve and a desire to await developments. There is little or no demand for edible or vegetable oils.

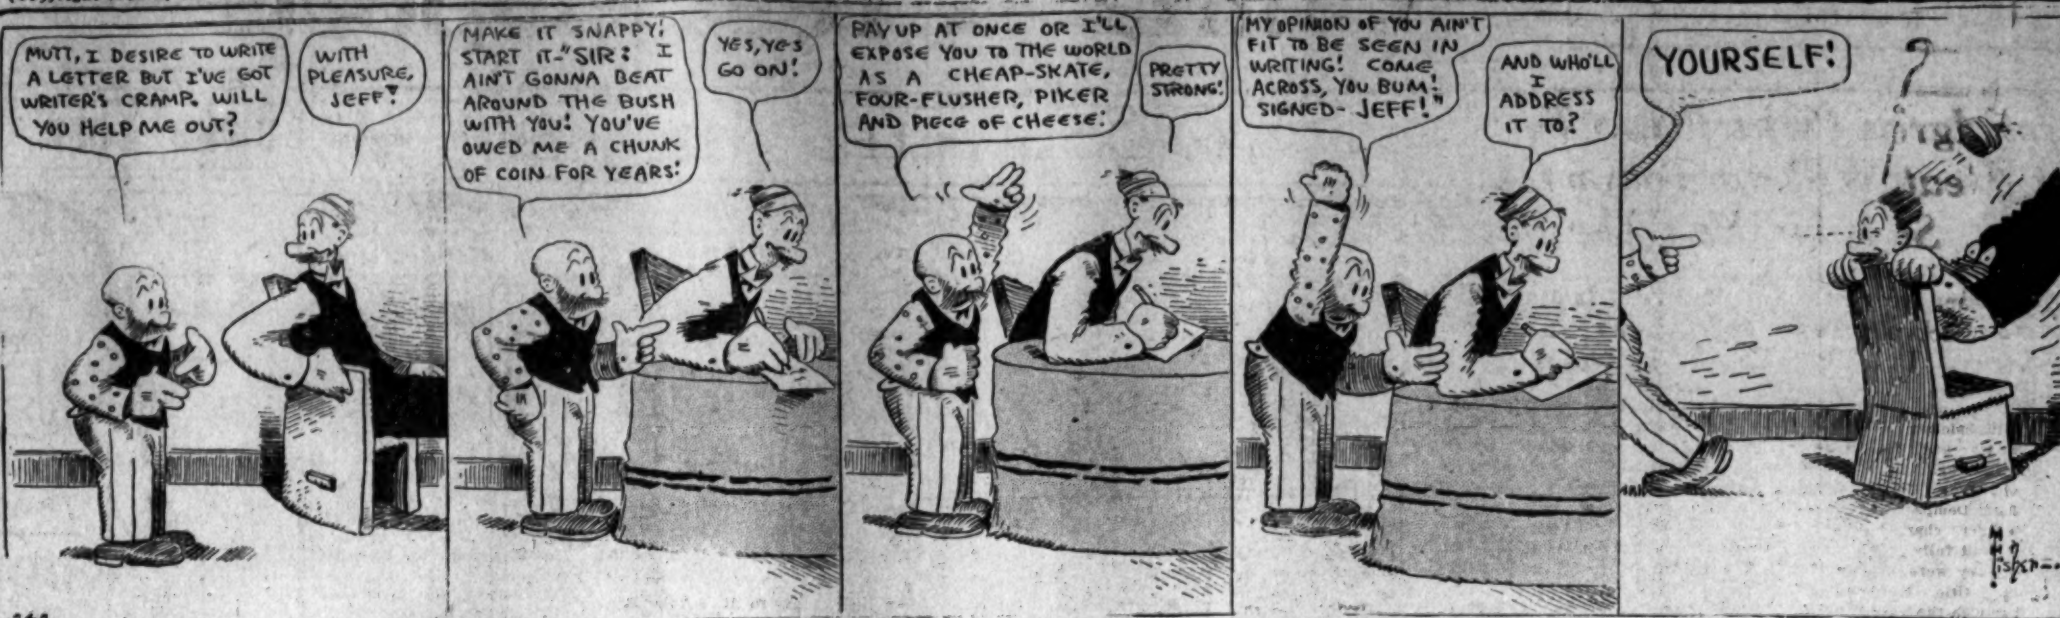

Annual Slackening Comes In American Business Activities

The following cablegram regarding business conditions in the United States has been received by the office of the American Commercial Attaché here from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington:

"Usual seasonal slackening in production and sales apparent such as building, automotive and lumber. Money tighter and rates higher. Collections fair. Prices wheat, cotton, steel declining. Corn increasing. Stocks of goods moderate."

COMMEND ANHUEI ANTI-OPIMUM BODY FOR ITS ACTIVITY

A letter of commendation for the work of the Anhui Anti-Opium Association, with headquarters here, has been received from the offices of the International Anti-Opium Association, Peking. The letter is as follows: "The Anhui Anti-Opium Association, Shanghai.

"Dear Fellow Workers:—We have received a number of your petitions which we have published in both the Foreign and Chinese newspapers. We have also sent reports to the League of Nations, to the British Legation, and the Chinese Foreign Office. We are very thankful to have the photographs. I will write again today to both Chinese Foreign Office and the Board of the Interior informing them that I have these photographs.

"We wish to encourage the Anhui Association, and hope you will continue your good work. Don't stop for one minute. You have the honor of being the only

Chinese Association which is making a big protest to the Government, and as you know, unless your country stops this evil of opium her reputation will be far more affected than by any other problem now before the world.

"China promised at the Washington Conference that she would use her utmost power to stop the opium, and yet in the Province of Anhui, where the Northern Government has full power, the opium cultivation is being encouraged by the officials.

"I can promise you that we are doing everything in our power to make it known, and so assist all honest people to cleanse their land of this great evil.

"Please keep us further informed of all you are doing.

Edgren Picks Firpo To Beat Willard Tomorrow; Says He Has The Punch

Former Champion, While Vastly Improved, Still Lacks The Power And Fighting Instinct Of The "Wild Bull Of The Pampas"

We are on the threshold of a tremendously exciting ring event. Firpo and Jess Willard, meeting to fight out their rival claims tomorrow for a right to meet Jack Dempsey in a world's heavy-weight championship bout, will attract fully as much attention as if they were already fighting for the title. And when they are through the winner will be signed at once to meet Dempsey later in the year, says Robert Edgren.

Since Jim Jeffries grew old and slipped back out of the limelight the ring hasn't seen another figure as picturesque as the "Wild Bull of the Pampas," Firpo of the Argentine. Even Willard, when he whipped Jack Johnson at Havana, was less interesting than Firpo.

Willard was a champion because of his great bulk and strength. He wasn't a natural fighter. He didn't like fighting. But he liked the money a champion could gather, and so he trained hard for nearly a year, attained perfect physical condition, wore Johnson down in a slow, deliberate way, and when Johnson could no longer lift his arms in the 24th round, knocked him out.

The crowd likes the man who goes in to win or lose right from the first round, and who fights at top speed until he gets results. That is Jack Dempsey's style. It is also Firpo's.

Curiously, it seems that Willard has come back a real fighting man. Certainly he used good fighting tactics against Floyd Johnson May 12 when he jabbed and right-crossed the game Iowa youngster to a standstill in eleven rounds and finished him with a tremendous uppercut that would have knocked down a horse.

Willard used to think any fight was a joke, because he believed no one could hurt him with a blow. Knocked out by Dempsey, he realised afterward that a bout against any good man isn't a circus performance, and that clowning doesn't win fights.

MORE DANGEROUS
His new idea makes Willard more dangerous than he ever was in his younger days, and in the Johnson fight he proved that he has strength and endurance still, for he increased the pace as soon as he took the aggressive in the last few rounds, and was perfectly fresh at the finish—in fact looked much better than in the early rounds.

Willard's showing against Johnson would entitle him to another Dempsey fight at once, if Firpo hadn't come up at the same time.

In ring history good men have come together. Once it was Sullivan, Kilrain, Mitchell, Jackson, Mac and Slavin. Then a little later, Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Maher, Sharkey, Chynowski, McCoy, Rubin and Jeffries.

When the wedding out was over Jeffries had no rivals for several years, and quit the ring. Six years later he was dragged out to fight Johnson, a new heavyweight with great skill and strength and all around fighting ability.

After that there was the "White Hope" period, a long time when a lot of promising youngsters cavorted about and it seemed as if ring science had been forgotten. Out of that welter came Willard, who was alone on the peak until Dempsey, clambered up and threw him down.

Since that day at Toledo we have not had a single man who compared with Dempsey as a fighter. There has been another black period.

And now, at a single show we have seen six men, any one of whom could give Dempsey a fair, interesting battle. They were Tiny Herman, a fast fat man with a willing punch; Jack Renault, almost another Dempsey in action; Floyd Johnson, game enough to fight anybody; McAuliffe, fine boxer and a good prospect in spite of a single defeat; and Firpo and Willard.

The cycle of great heavy-weights has rolled around again. And now for a little intimate stuff on Firpo.

I have it from a gentleman who often visits the Argentine that he saw Firpo, a novice, in two fights there in 1914 at the Constitutional Club and the Seaman's Home. He says Firpo wasn't a drug clerk, but was a blacksmith.

Whatever Firpo's early experience, he landed in New York a couple of years ago, fat, clumsy and unskilled, and won three fights with knockouts. Coming on another trip he showed some improvement but was still far from a finished ring product. He knocked out Bill Brennan in a rushing, furious battle, using his arms like clubs, rushing from his corner with his right first held far behind him to start a swinging right hand blow that being his primitive notion of the way to box.

Firpo was clumsy, but his fighting qualities were very evident.

Jimmy De Forest, old fox of the ring, was engaged to teach Firpo how to handle himself. De Forest had been useful even to Dempsey when he trained and coached Jack at Toledo. The result of his work was amazing.

He had two hands. He could use his left. He fought compactly, like a boxer.

Best of all, changing Firpo's fighting style hadn't made him lose any part of his natural aggressiveness, of his trick of retreating instantly with a tremendous blow when hit.

That is Firpo's greatest fighting asset. Hitting him on the chin is like banging a stick of dynamite with a hammer. I once knew a man who did that. He was a total loss. So was the hammer.

McAuliffe shook Firpo with several sharp, hard punches. Twice Firpo's plunging counter hits dropped McAuliffe to the floor. After the second it wasn't even necessary to count.

A BIGGER DEMPSEY
Physically Firpo is the most symmetrical big man I've seen in the ring. Jeffries was more muscular. Willard is bigger.

But Firpo is a model of physical perfection and power. When he first appeared he was thick waisted and slow. Training has brought out his muscles, has taken off all the fat, has given him a trim waist, well shaped legs, broad shoulders and good arms.

He has long muscles that go with speed and a punch. There isn't a bunched muscle on him. He is to make the description brief, an exact counterpart of Jack Dempsey himself—but thirty pounds heavier and two inches taller, with reach in proportion!

Trained fine, he weighed 214 pounds against McAuliffe. And he has a lot of Dempsey's speed. Willard is a bigger man than Firpo, but will have no such great

Nine Ways Of Getting Out At Cricket, Says Ranji

Prince Ranjitsinhji, in his "Jubilee Book of Cricket," gives nine ways in which a batsman can be out. Most batsmen are, of course, more concerned with how they can keep in, rather than with how they can be got out.

Still it is just as well that the cricketer should know of the many pitfalls which beset him from the time when he puts on the batting gloves until the time when he makes the lone trail back to the pavilion.

So here are the ways of getting out, and a few comments:

1. Being Clean Bowled.—This is the most satisfactory way of all, for when a batsman turns round and finds his stumps all askew, with the wicket-keeper groping about 20 yards away for the balls, then there does not seem to be much room for comment or argument.
2. Hit Wicket.—The batsman usually swears inwardly, but goes quickly.
3. Being Caught Out.—If on his leg, or otherwise tries to get it out of the line of the wicket; then he points to his bat, and addresses a few pithy remarks as he passes square leg.

Finally he spends the whole of the next week in explaining to his bored listeners that the ball did not hit his leg, that his leg was not in front of the wicket, and that even if it had been, the ball broke at least a couple of yards.

The 7th, 8th and 9th items.—Willfully hitting the ball twice, except in defence of the wicket; handling the ball; obstructing the field—are of rare occurrence, and need no comment, except to say that if a batsman were given out in any of these ways he would certainly feel hurt.

NORTH CHINA VOLLEYBALLERS HERE FOR SERIES

Will Play Games With College And School Teams Here

The North China Volleyball team composed of the best players the Peking and Tientsin colleges can produce is now in Shanghai for a series of games with the different college and school teams here. Arrangements are now under way to schedule games with the St. John's, Nanyang, and Shanghai College teams and other middle school organizations.

Today the North China men will play the team representing the Chinese Y. M. C. A. The game will be staged at the association's gymnasium, starting at five o'clock in the afternoon. The visitors are expected to cop the game without much trouble.

The North China Volleyball team's trip to Shanghai and most probably to Canton is the outcome of China's failure to get the championship title in this game in the Far Eastern Olympic Games held at Osaka last May. Although China won the title on all previous occasions, she was defeated by the Filipino team during the last meet. Fearing that there will be a repetition of her failure in the 1925 Meet at Manila, the Northern players begin their preparation by taking this trip.

Knepper Picked To Give Evans A Tussle

Cleveland, July 9.—When Chick Evans comes here to defend his title in the Western amateur golf championship, he will be played over the Mayfield Country Club course July 22-23. His stiffest competition probably will come from Ruddy Knepper of Sioux City, Bobby Jones of Atlanta, has announced he will not be a participant, while Francis Outmet is considered a doubtful starter.

Other promising entrants are Harrison Johnson of St. Paul; Godchaux of New Orleans and Boyd of Knoxville.

Indications, according to golf experts here, are that Knepper will be Evans' best this year. They point out that he struck his stride for the first time last year and easily was one of the ranking players of the season. His work in the national amateur at Brookline was not many strokes below the best form shown by Sweetser, Evans and Jones.

London, July 9.—The Times attributes the fall in price of tin to the promising trade outlook especially in America, and to the closing of bullish speculative accounts.

Flapperizing Classics Newest Field of Feminine Endeavor

Famous Dancer Pioneer in Profession

Flapperizing the classics is the latest occupation to be opened to women.

Vanda Hoff, dancer and pioneer in the new industry, which introduces the classics flavored with jazz, says it has infinite possibilities as long as the dance craze and the supply of music masters holds out.

Tschalkowski concertos, Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite", Rimsky Korsakov's "Sadko", Bizet's "Carmen" and numerous themes of Chopin are among the productions that have been served up a la paprika for the flapper's dance.

"When the Leaves Come Tumbling Down", explains Vanda Hoff, "has done something different. It has absorbed Mendelssohn's 'Spring Song' but has not made it its theme."

"I got so blue thru & thru when the leaves come a-tum-bling down from the trees."

It is these bars which I hear hummed while dancing that make the number so popular.

"Thousands who never heard of the 'Spring Song' now sing 'When the Leaves Come Tumbling Down', little realizing that a part of it is one of the world's greatest musical classics, but that it took a catchy bit of jazz theme to make this classic known everywhere."

"There has been some disapproval from the highbrows of the so-called 'violin' of the classics, but the fact remains that it took flapperization to get the world at large interested in this most beautiful Mendelssohn melody."

"I, for one, cannot see how learning classics via jazz college in any way violates their beauty, and the public is showing a decided preference for classical jazz as proved by a recent survey which revealed the fact that more music of this type is sold than any other."

"This convinces me more than ever that popular dance music is a great educational factor and coming to mean more to us every day, and that from this union of the new and the old will be born a new musical era which students will assiduously study a century hence and refer to as the 'classics of old.'"

"Thus will time vindicate twentieth century popular music."

Edgren Picks Firpo To Beat Willard Tomorrow

advantage as he has had over all his other opponents. He is only four inches taller. He weighs 34 pounds more, but it isn't all fighting weight. He doesn't out-measure Firpo greatly except in height. Willard's chest, expanded, is 49 inches. Firpo's 48 1/2.

Very little difference there. A big chest shows lung capacity, which is usually the measure of endurance.

In all of Firpo's published measurements his biceps is placed at 13 1/2 inches. That's absurd. His biceps will measure just about three inches more. His arms are in proportion to the rest of his physique.

Willard said next day that in the sixth round Johnson hurt him with a body punch, but he quickly recovered. I saw that punch, and saw Willard's legs sag for a minute afterward. But it's true he recovered. Just at the end of the round he nearly lifted Johnson off his feet with a vicious uppercut.

In my opinion that same blow delivered by Firpo, landed in just the same way, would have dropped Willard and might have finished him.

But Willard has no lack of conscience in his ability to take any punches Firpo can send over, and to beat him. Otherwise he wouldn't have immediately accepted a chance to fight Firpo before going after Dempsey. And confidence will help Willard a lot when he fights again. In the early rounds with Johnson he was uncertain and over-cautious. After half a dozen rounds he was fighting his best. With full confidence in his condition and ability to give and take blows Willard should be twice as dangerous as he was at the Yankee Stadium.

Just one thing more. No one knows how Firpo will stand under such heavy fire as Willard can deliver. He was badly cut by Brennan, and it didn't worry him, but Brennan had no crashing punch like Willard's down-carving right or right uppercut. If Firpo hits the floor it may be some of that aggressiveness out of him. Willard counts on that.

But I don't think Firpo will show any weakness. The "Willard of the Pannos" looks like a man born and bred for fighting, with a mind that knows no other when in the ring. That kind of a man is hard to stop.

I am strongly inclined to think it will be Firpo of the Argentine who will meet Dempsey for the world title in the Fall.

SUN DENIES TALK OF KUOMINTANG-CHIH LI ALLIANCE

In reply to the local headquarters of the Kuomintang party, L. Y. Sun telegraphed yesterday that there was absolutely no truth in the report that an alliance between him and Tsoo Kun was being made. The message stated that since the defeat of Shen Hung-shan at Shaochow, no exchange of notes have been made with Tsoo. However, before Shen rebelled against him, emissaries were sent not only to Tsoo but also to other Northern militarists to negotiate for the unification of the nation, Dr. Sun said.

General Pao Li-wu, Kuomintang leader, returned from Peking yesterday. Interviewed by newspapermen, General Pao stated that there was absolutely no hope for Tsoo Kun to become president. The leaders of all cliques were unanimous that if he was elected, the country would be thrown into a state of anarchy.

General Pao also related his interview with Chang Shou-tung, ex-premier, who reiterated his stand that he had never favored unification by force during his tenure of office; he never issued a presidential mandate to order any armed expedition to any province while the march against Kwangtung, Fukien and Szechuen were instituted by Generals Wu Pei-fu and Chi Shih-yuan respectively. Chang further stated that he never favored the ousting of Li Yuan-hong from Peking and that he had no knowledge of the coup until after its happening.

Three Years Sentence For Chinese Accused Of Attempted Murder

Charged with armed robbery and with the attempted murder of Sikh Havildar 194 on Tongshan Road June 25, a Chinese named Faung Ghu-sung was sentenced to three years' imprisonment and subsequent expulsion by the Mixed Court yesterday.

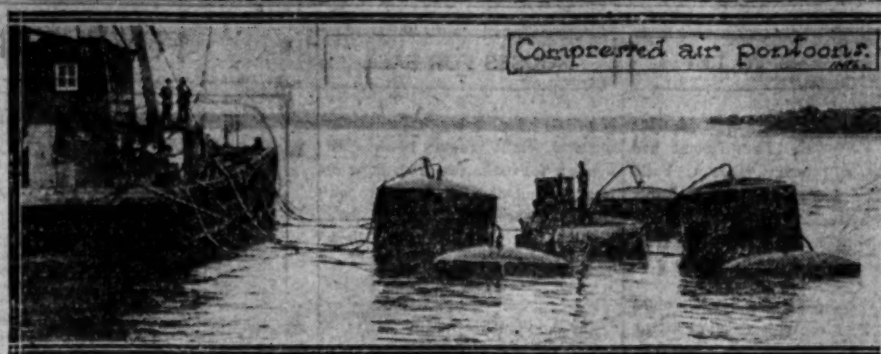

The Sikh testified that he arrested the man after a robbery had been committed and a woman had raised the alarm. The accused ran toward him with pistol raised but he succeeded in knocking down and disarming his assailant. Detective Sergeant Ashley stated to the Court that when the pistol was examined the cartridge in the barrel was found to have had its cap dented by the firing pin.

The accused denied taking part in the robbery and said he had picked the pistol up in the road after the woman had raised the alarm and was running to the policeman to hand over the weapon when arrested.

Lancashire Cotton Men Not Opposed To School Scheme

(Review's Service)
London, July 10.—In connection with the proposal to establish a technical school at Shanghai, the Manchester Guardian says that a recent meeting of the Master Cotton-spinners Association of the Bolton district, after hearing a statement that it is not intended to utilize the institution for the purpose of prejudicing the Lancashire cotton industry, unanimously adopted a recommendation that any opposition to the scheme should be withdrawn. All the Members of Parliament concerned and the other organizations have been duly notified to this effect.

Ship Salvaged By Compressed Air

A GREAT step forward in submarine salvage was successfully demonstrated off Long Island when the Coast Guard cutter Seely, which had been converted from a 500-ton

Seely's boat, was raised from a depth of 60 feet by means of compressed-air pontoons. A submarine tractor was lowered alongside the 200-foot vessel, and holes were drilled in the hull. Then tanks, filled with water, were attached. The water was blown out by compressed air and the vessel easily lifted to the surface.

New Dances Please Del Monte Patrons

The new show at the Del Monte opened last night, with Miss Elvira Petty featuring with her new "Vamp Dance." Four new girls, who recently arrived to augment the Del Monte entertainment staff also appeared for the first time, and all were good—surprisingly good. An unusually big crowd was present.

Miss Petty, who has long been a popular favorite at the Del Monte, was in her element in the new dance. Her costume, specially designed for this number, is very attractive, and caused about as much comment as the dance itself. Both were knockouts.

The shows at Del Monte are getting better and better, and are proving increasingly popular. Next week the ballet, which is to be an American Indian affair, will be the best yet offered, with sixteen girls in the line-up. Rehearsals have already started.

Russo-Japanese Trade Relations Open Temporarily

(Review's Pacific Service)
Tokio, July 10.—The preliminary conversations between Mr. Kawakami and M. Joffe continue to involve announcements of approaches and retreats with balloons d'essai floated through the native and foreign press by both sides, producing floods of speculation. Officially only the barest statement from the headquarters of M. Joffe or the Foreign Office is given out but spokesmen to the press make statements conveying the alleged personal views of the principals.

The surface negotiations include the questions of responsibility for Nikolaevsk and claims for material compensation as well as "saving face." These, however, are regarded by well-informed observers as covering the vital points, which are recognition for the Soviet and the cession or lease of Northern Sakhalin to Japan. According to Reuter's informant nothing else matters much at present. The recognition of old debts and treaties by Russia, compensation for Nikolaevsk and Russia's claim for damages done by Japanese in Siberia may all be merged into a proposal on which, if Mr. Kawakami and M. Joffe agree, a third conference may be called.

Meanwhile trade relations have been opened temporarily. The present preliminary conversations may be broken off without prejudice at any moment, if it is found advisable to postpone them until a time more propitious.

Peking M.P.'s In Canton, Want Sun Made President

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Canton, July 9.—The North River district is free of Northern troops and trains on the Kwangtung section of the Canton-Hankow railway are beginning to run to Shikwan.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen is again visiting the East River district to see the operations against Wuchow which has not yet fallen.

Peking Members of Parliament are arriving at Canton. Some suggest an extraordinary session to elect Dr. Sun Yat-sen as President.

The Constitutionalist are still unable to announce their policy towards Marshal Tso Ku's overtures as they doubt the latter's sincerity.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, July 7.—Messages from Canton confirm the reports already published that there is very little chance of a compromise between Dr. Sun Yat-sen and General Chen Ching-ming. Many of Dr. Sun's followers are said to be very bitter towards General Chen and wish to see him completely crushed.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Hongkong, July 10.—The Commissioner of Customs at Samahai is advising vessels not to go beyond the port for fear of trouble above the West River. Traffic between Hongkong and Wuchow is thus again interrupted.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Canton, July 4.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen has officially denied that he has ever sent agents out to parley with General Chen Ching-ming relative to peace. Nothing but the unconditional surrender of General Chen will be acceptable to him.

It is stated that the Constitutionalist will not attempt the formation of a Government in Canton but will endeavor to unite existing parties both in the North and South in a common policy against the election of General Tso Ku as President of the Republic. The question of inviting the demoralized National Assembly to meet in Canton again has never been seriously considered here since the return of Dr. Sun to power in Canton. Dr. Sun himself is still engaged in the labor of the tranquillization of Kwangtung, as it would be impossible to command national respect and influence unless his power ceases to be disputed in his own province. So far the North River districts in Kwangtung are still infested with General Chen Ching-ming's supporters, while the upper parts of the North and the West River regions are terrorized by guerrilla warfare directed by enemies of Kuomintang.

There has been no time when the Cantonese have suffered so much from adverse circumstances as at present. Besides the evils and hardships resulting from the war, floods and plague have added to their misfortunes in several districts near Canton.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, July 7.—From the political point of view the week has been one singularly lacking in real news.

There have been numerous rumors and contradictions of rumors, but nothing of great importance has happened, at any rate on the surface.

Parliamentary news has been naturally lacking through the continual failure to form a quorum, but apart from this very in the way of details is reaching the capital with regard to events elsewhere such as in Kwangtung, Fukien or Szechuen.

Many Chinese assert that this is largely because Peking for the time being has become less important than Paoingfu, Tientsin, Shanghai and elsewhere and that the present quiescence is likely to continue here till normal government has been restored.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, July 7.—General Liu Hsien-shih, Commander-in-Chief of Kwelchow, has issued a circular telegram denying the rumors that Kwelchow is in the hands of bandits and saying that the thing is quite peaceful there.

Peking, July 10.—It is reported from Changsha that the restoration of the status quo has been delayed by the fall of the river, which prevented two Japanese river boats from ascending the river to Changsha.

Carlton Cafe Announces Fine New Program

A program which promises much in the way of high class entertainment for Shanghai opens at the New Carlton Cafe tomorrow evening, when three artists new to this city but of established reputation in America and other countries begin a brief local engagement.

The trio of newcomers are Miss Annie Maynard, classical dancer, Miss Elsie Burton, dramatic soprano, and Mr. Clifford Adams, pianist and composer. All come to Shanghai with records of high accomplishment in the West.

Miss Burton was formerly with the Chicago Grand Opera Company, and while connected with that major American institution sang with much success in many of the principal grand opera programs as well as in light opera. Miss Maynard too has had an enviable career behind the footlights and has been characterized as one of the most graceful and eloquently interpretative of solo classical dancers.

Mr. Adams, besides being recognized as a pianist of high rank is known as a successful composer. He is a pupil of Philip Hough, of the Cincinnati Conservatory and has held positions of importance with some of America's foremost theatrical organizations. Among the better known of his compositions are "Symphonette," an overture; "The Poem Kiss," a ballet; several delightful waltzes and some two or more of songs, including a number of the popular sort.

Tonight is the concluding night of the Carlton's present excellent show. All of the Russian artists will be seen in special numbers and "Little Mura" Shipoff is to give feature items. The program promises to be an exceptional one and it is safe to predict a big crowd to greet these popular performers in their final numbers.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

July 10, 1923

Spot bar silver was up 1/4 d. and forward 1/4 d. in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 63 1/2 cents and the London New York cross rate to 45 1/2.

At the opening our official Sterling rate was raised to 3/1 but as the market in the morning was very firm the rate was further raised to 3/1 1/2, the Gold Dollar rate being fixed at 70 1/2, the Yen rate at 69 1/2 and the other rates changed accordingly.

Our market at one time during the day was very firm indeed but eased off somewhat at the close. The highest rates at which business in Sterling was done were 3/1 1/2 for July, 3/1 1/4 August and 3/1 1/2 September.

The highest rates for Gold Dollars were 71 1/2 July and 71 for August-September.

At the close, however, there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 3/1 1/2 for July, 3/1 August and 3/0 1/2 September.

The best sellers of Gold Dollars were quoting 70 1/2 for July and 70 1/2 for August. There were sellers of Yen at the close at 68 1/2 for July and 69 for August.

Banks were quoting 3/1 1/2 and 72 1/2 for Sterling and Gold Dollar bills for near delivery and 3/1 1/2 and 72 1/2 respectively for forward delivery. There were buyers of Franc bills at 1240.

China bought silver in London yesterday and the Continent sold, the market closing steady. New York report their market as firm.

Bringing Up Father

(Registered U. S. Patent Office)

By George McManus

the remark of a certain wise Emperor of a former dynasty: "Any person in the city can discover a score of gold mines if necessary, but one only could possibly have written 'Concerning Spring.'"

The book is richly flavored by brilliant and pointed Chinese proverbs and choice epigrams of the author's inspiration that successfully capture the imagination and thought of the reader. Each story produces the effect of a carefully contrived and diligently executed plot, trimmed of any superfluous words or expressions, while the relation of the collected novel is one of satisfactory completion. Hardly a line that is not worth reading and few that one does not want to keep. It would not be hard to believe that the twenty-year interval between this book and its predecessor was spent by the author in beautifying and perfecting this distinctive achievement. The preface by Hilaire Belloc is an expression and appreciation of literature in general and of this book in particular.

It would be impossible to read the book without carrying away many pictures and melodies which become the joyful possessions of the reader, for, to use another of Mr. Bramah's delightful enunciations: "The flower attracts the bee but when he parts it is to his lips that the honey clings."

Keeping Him Guessing

BY BEATRICE FAIRFAX pen to meet him, and it comes up. "Indeed, I won't telephone him. But I'm not going to make a point of it." "Why should I? He'd certainly think I was mad about him if I dashed off to a telephone to invite him to the club dance. If I hapand so she turned around and invited a man she didn't mind making a point of asking, since she cared very little whether or not he went from her.

"I need an escort," she said, shrugging her shoulders. "Sam" as good as anyone. He dances well and knows how to treat a girl when she takes him out. He'll send me flowers and insist on having at least eight of my dances, and it won't hurt for Bert to see that I'm not dependent on him."

Don't you know any number of girls who act just as Luella did? And how well does it work out in practice?

Coquetry is good enough in its place. If it means making one self as stimulating and charming and desirable as possible; if it means being gracious without being fulsome in attentions and appreciation; if it means making the most of one's daintiness and sweetness, well and good. But when it means lying and making believe and pretending and posing and hiding all your real feelings, what real service can it do?

No real and lasting love was ever won by coquetry. No fine, big emotion ever came in response to cheap little tricks. Posing as something you are not can't win you regard for what you really are.

If a man and woman are to feel real love and devotion, they must build on truth. Only a revelation of your real self can give you the response to your own nature which that nature craves. Any number of girls fancy that the greatest charm they can possess is that of coyness, of pretending not to feel anything more than surface emotions. They imagine that the minute they give anything honest and real to their friendships with men, the men are going to tire of them. Men do tire of whining and whimpering. A man is likely to be bored by ceaseless demands on his time. When a woman expresses a selfish sense of possession, a man is bound to chafe at it. We all like to feel free, to assert our individuality and to come and go somewhat as we please. But between fastening around a man's life like ivy clinging to an oak—or battering at a man's door like a bird trying to fly in out of a storm—and "keeping him guessing" there is a world of difference.

Loyalty, honest friendship, appreciation, thoughtfulness, understanding and consideration will do far more to appeal to a man of genuine feelings than will all the tacking across his path that makes a girl fancy herself alluring. "To have a friend you must first be one." To win love, you must first show some capacity for appreciating it.

Across The Breakfast Table

By Mr. and Mrs. W. L. George

Infectious Marriage

Mr. George: Henry tells me that little Kitty Lee is going to be married. I'm rather surprised that she should have picked the man she's chosen. So far as I can see there's nothing to recommend him; he's twenty years older than she is; he's not what you'd call a cultivated man, and he certainly has missed any chance of a career. The fact is that Kitty's not been herself since her two sisters both got engaged aside of three months. Kitty's jealous of them, and she justifies me in saying that women will marry anything that can crawl when they're infatuated with the marriage microbe.

Mrs. George: You do enjoy talking nonsense.

Mr. George: Do take your thumb out of your mouth when you speak.

Mrs. George: I shan't if I don't want to. Why shouldn't I put my thumb in my mouth if you keep your pipe in yours when you're talking to me? Kitty Lee is marrying Mr. Davis because she loves him (Mr. George: Rot!). It isn't rot, and I don't believe that Kitty's jealous. Probably what's the matter with her is that she's rather lonely and therefore more likely to be attracted by a man. After all, those three girls have grown up together and it's only natural that Kitty should feel it when she no longer has her sisters to play about with all the time.

Mr. George: As usual you put the position on the lowest basis. And you aren't even consistent; first you tell me that she's in love and prepare to grow sentimental; then you tell me that Kitty's marrying because she's lonely. So he isn't her affinity! The truth is that marriage by capture is woman's trade, and that Kitty is marrying just to show she can kill.

Pearls Of Chinese Fantasy

BY ROSE OLTUSKY

The child in man never dies, and in it lives his love for fairies and magic lamps and ivory towers and other creations of dreams and fancies which make possible a profound appreciation of that literary fantasy, "Kai Lung's Golden Hours," by Ernest Bramah (Doran). Only through the doors of such belief can one enter this Chinese fairyland and there enjoy which it contains and the humor which it yields in portraying Chinese conventions in the English tongue.

"Kai Lung's Golden Hours" is the "Arabian-Nights" of the far orient and the successor to "The Writings of Kai Lung," which made its appearance about twenty years ago. Kai Lung is the mysterious narrator of imaginative tales who saves his life time and again by telling his captors stories so fascinating and compelling that they inevitably defer judgment upon him to a later date. Hwa-mei, "The Golden Mouse," whom he loves, brings him information of approaching dangers so that he may prepare stories favorable to their defeat. And it is the record of these tales interwoven by the development of the romance between Kai Lung and Hwa-mei which produces a book, unique in the range of modern literature.

It is not only the written evidence of that ability to tread beneath the surface of life and human emotions which will make Ernest Bramah a familiar name in our literary household, but also his rare facility for expressing his philosophy in a finished and original form which furnishes an endless source of subtle humor distinguished in the exaggerated and flowery conventional and picturesque Chinese fashion. Kai Lung's stories are built around familiar ages-old axioms, but in their new and unconventional garb, unspooled by reiteration and imitation, they breathe the fragrance of the Chinese poppy in full bloom. The following instance from "Incredible Obstinacy" illustrates this individual superiority:

"There are rarer jewels than those which can be pasted in a crown, Supreme Head," said the stranger, entering unperceived behind the attending slave. He bore the external marks of an infirm magician, while his face was hidden in a cloth to mark the imposition of a solemn vow. "With what apter simile," he continued, "can this person describe an imperishable set of verse which he heard this morning falling from the lips of a wandering musician like a seven-roped cable of pearls pouring into a silver bucket? The striking and original title was 'Concerning Spring,' said, although the snow

Repatriation For Refugees
Is Considered At Meeting
Of Relief Committee Here

Measures that will make possible repatriation of some portion of the thousands of destitute Russian refugees who are in Shanghai and plans to continue if not enlarge the scope of the community kitchen which have been opened to keep refugees from starving are among the important matters discussed at a recent meeting of the newly-formed Refugee Relief Advisory Committee that was held in the Charity Organisation rooms, 5a Soochow Road.

Those present were Miss M. Jensen, Mrs. W. A. White, Mr. P. J. Blumenthal, Mr. G. A. Foszko, Mr. Gilbert E. Peet and Mr. S. W. Wolfe. Mr. Wolfe was elected to the chair.

Commenting upon criticism which had been heard to the effect that the Committee as it now stands is not sufficiently influential, Miss Jensen stated that invitation to attend the two recent meetings called by the Charity Organisation had been sent to a number of persons of social and financial prominence. On the proposal of Mr. Peet, a minute was noted in the record of the Committee's proceedings that the members of this Committee have only accepted office through default of others in coming forward who might be better qualified, and are ready at any time to make way for such when they offer their services, or to assist them in every way possible if required.

The rumored closing at an early date of the Community Kitchen in North Szechuen Road through lack of funds was discussed, and in view of the fact that more than 400 refugees obtain their solitary daily meal at the Kitchen it was felt that this would be a public calamity which everything possible should be done to avert. Miss Jensen was deputed to see the authorities of the Community Church, and to ascertain from them in what ways this Committee can best help to keep the Kitchen going, also to increase its output of meals, if possible, from 400 to 500 per day.

Mr. Peet placed before the Committee a detailed plan whereby statistics of all refugee relief work being done in Shanghai at present should be obtained from the various Benevolent Societies, engaged therein, together with information as to how far their work is likely to be overlapping the work of others, or in what ways it falls short of requirements and needs assistance.

It was decided to adopt this scheme and to have the necessary questionnaire forms printed and circulated with all possible speed. Mr. Blumenthal informed the Committee that some 20 or 40 refugees have recently applied to the officials in charge of Russian affairs here to be sent back to Russia, but had met with refusal because there are no funds available for their repatriation, and the Chinese authorities have refused, so far, to undertake the free railway transport of these people to Harbin. No doubt many more refugees would be willing to leave Shanghai for Russia, via Harbin, if assisted to do so. It was decided that the Committee shall approach the Chinese Ministry of Communication in reference to the matter of free transport, after first obtaining from reliable sources in Harbin information as to whether the Soviet representative there is now granting visas to Russian citizens wishing to return to Russia, regardless of whether the applicants are members of Trade Unions or otherwise.

Mr. Gordins Nielsen's letter to the local press recommending the unused aviation shed at the end of the Hung-jao Road as a suitable place wherein, if permitted by the Chinese authorities, about 1,000 refugees could be housed, was discussed, and arrangements were made for members of the Committee to inspect this building.

Suit May Involve $20,000,000 Estate

The legal fight started in Boston by Mrs. Mabel Hunt Slater, widow of Horatio A. Slater, to break the voluntary trusteeship of her private fortune of $7,000,000 will involve the entire Slater estate of $20,000,000, according to Major Thomas L. Walsh, her attorney. Mrs. James B. Murphy, her daughter, is the chief heir to the estate.

The urgent needs of destitute members of the Shanghai Russian Students' Union for summer clothing and underwear, and of the Polish Benevolent Society for furniture (chairs, tables, crockery, etc.) for its refugee house, were brought to the notice of the Committee for publication in the hope of sympathetic public response. All such gifts, sent to Mrs. Whelan, The Charity Organisation, 5a Soochow Road, will be very gratefully received.

Science Turns
A Faster Into
Some Glatton!

Paris—Cocktails and other appetizers may lose their usefulness if the discovery by Professor Charles Richet, communicated to the French Academy of Medicine, is brought into general usage.

Professor Richet presented to the Academy a man who had complained that he was never hungry, and had offered himself to Richet as a subject for an operation. Richet said he had removed the man's spleen.

"Since then," said Professor Richet, "this man's appetite has been enormous. He can't stop eating, in fact. The man, who was munching nuts, confirmed Professor Richet's statement."

The professor said that this was the first operation of its kind he had performed on a human, but that it confirmed numerous experiments he had made with small animals.

Professor Richet also announced that he had discovered that human life was made up of thousands of vibrations per second, emanating from the brain. Four brain vibrations were necessary to each muscular action, he said.

Another interesting announcement made by the Academy is that copper not only is not poisonous, but a splendid medicine. Verdigris, it was said, instead of being a deadly poison, was in reality a splendid purgative.

At least 200 milligrams of copper should be eaten by every one daily, the bulletin said, as this quantity had been found in all well balanced diets.

Blindness Gains
On James Joyce
As He Writes On

Paris—A Milton-like tragedy is being enacted in the apartment beneath the Eiffel Tower, where James Joyce, author of "Ulysses," lives and writes. Joyce, who has always been a rather tragic and heroic figure, is rapidly going blind.

At the present time he presents the most pathetic case of any master now writing. Striving desperately to complete a sequel to his best known work, while his falling vision permits, he labors all day, writing great sweeping words with thick crayon on a huge sheet of paper stretched out on the table before him.

For the last three years Joyce's sight has been failing. This was thought to have culminated in the summer of 1922 when a temporary attack of blindness confined him for three months to a darkened room, unable to work. But now he knows that soon he will be permanently blind. "I cannot dictate," he says, "so any word that I now write, may be my last."

Hearst Flops To
Reed; 'Off' Of Ford

New York, June 21.—Many strange things are happening in the American political world.

One of them is the change in the attitude of William Randolph Hearst toward Henry Ford as a presidential possibility. The newspaper publisher cabled to headquarters of the Hearst papers from Bulgaria where he is now and instructed his editors to support Senator Reed, of Missouri, as the Democratic candidate in the coming presidential election.

This action on the part of Hearst indicates a change of mind on his part which many find it baffling to explain. It will be remembered that one of the Hearst papers printed last week an article by Mr. Hearst, in which he declared for Ford.

That Senator Reed does not have much liking for the support of Mr. Hearst is clear from the fact that he has avoided interviews with the newspaper owner.

SCIENCE AT PEACE WITH RELIGION,
40 LEADERS SAY

Washington—A joint statement holding that there is no antagonism between science and religion was issued here as representing the conclusions of a group of forty distinguished "cans on a subject which recently has aroused bitter and widespread controversy."

The names of two Cabinet officers, Secretaries Hoover and Davis; three bishops and many others in positions of leadership in the political, business, scientific and religious world are attached to the declaration, which was prepared by Dr. R. A. Milliken, director of the Norman Bridge Laboratory of Physics, at Pasadena, Calif.

"The purpose," said an accompanying explanation, "is to assist in correcting two erroneous impressions that seem to be current among certain groups of persons. The first is that religion today stands for medieval theology; the second that science is materialistic and irreligious."

REGRET CONTROVERSIES

The statement follows: "We, the undersigned, deeply regret that in recent controversies there has been a tendency to present science and religion as irreconcilable and antagonistic domains of thought, for in fact they meet distinct human needs and in the rounding out of human life they supplement rather than displace or oppose each other."

"The purpose of science is to develop, without prejudice or preconception of any kind, a knowledge of the facts, the laws and the processes of nature. The even more important task of religion, on the other hand, is to develop the consciences, the ideals and the aspirations of mankind. Each of these two activities represents a deep and vital function of the soul of man, and both are necessary for the life, the progress and the happiness of the human race."

"It is a sublime conception of God which is furnished by science, and one wholly consonant with the highest ideals of religion when it represents Him as revealing Himself through countless ages in the development of the earth as an abode for man and in the age-long inbreathing of life into its constituent matter, culminating in man with his spiritual nature and all his God-like powers."

COLLEGE HEADS IN LIST

Besides Secretaries Hoover and Davis those whose names were attached to the statement included Bishops William Lawrence and William Thomas Manning, of the Episcopal Church, and Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church; Dr. Charles D. Walcott, of the Smithsonian Institution, who is president of the National Academy of Sciences; President Angell of Yale, President Burton of the University of Chicago, Dr. William J. Mayo, David F. Houston, Frank O. Lowden, John Sharp Williams, Rear Admiral William S. Sims, Julius Kruttschnitt, Frank A. Vanderlip, William Allen White, Victor F. Lawson, Henry van Dyke, President Barbour of the Rochester Theological Seminary, President King of Oberlin Theological Seminary, Dr. John D. Davis, Princeton Theological Seminary; Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History, New York; Professor John Merle Coulter, University of Chicago; Professor Michael Pupin, Columbia; Professor George D. Birkhoff, Harvard; Director Noyes, Gates Chemical Laboratory, California Institute of Technology, and Professor William W. Campbell, director of Lick Observatory.

Other signers were H. B. Thayer, president American Telephone and Telegraph Company; Henry S. Pritchett, banker, New York; John C. Shedd, Chicago; Dr. James I. Vance, Nashville, Tenn.; the Rev. Dr. Robert E. Brown, Waterbury, Conn.; the Rev. Dr. Peter Ainslie, Baltimore; President Poter, of Lake Forest College, N. C.; Professor Edwina G. Conklin, of Princeton University; John J. Carty, New York; Professor William H. Welch, Johns Hopkins University; John C. Merriam, president Carnegie Institution, Washington; Gano Dunn, chairman National Research Council, and Dr. Millikan.
